

DID YOU KNOW?

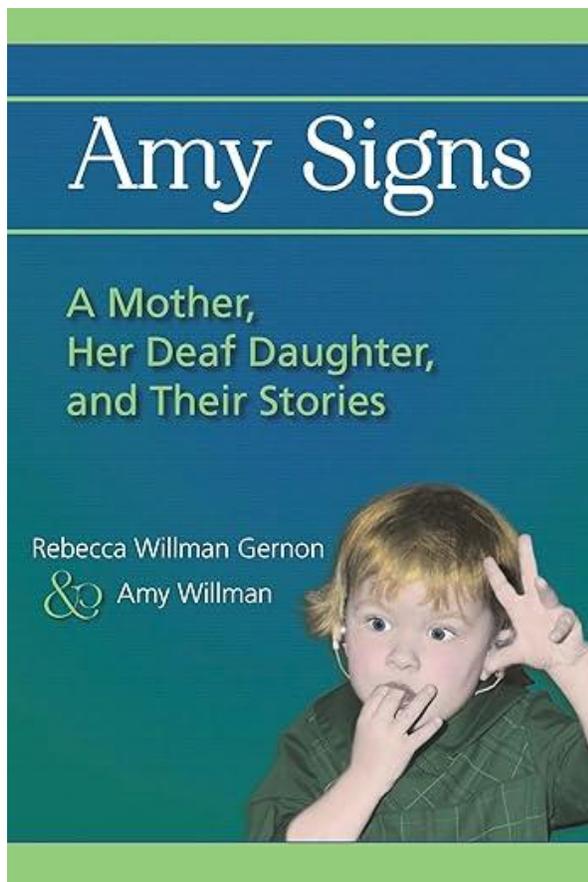

Did you know that two NSD alumni have written books?

Amy Willman and Patti Reitz are both published authors. We're proud to celebrate the accomplishments of our NSD students.

By Treasurer Debra Weyers, Class of 1979

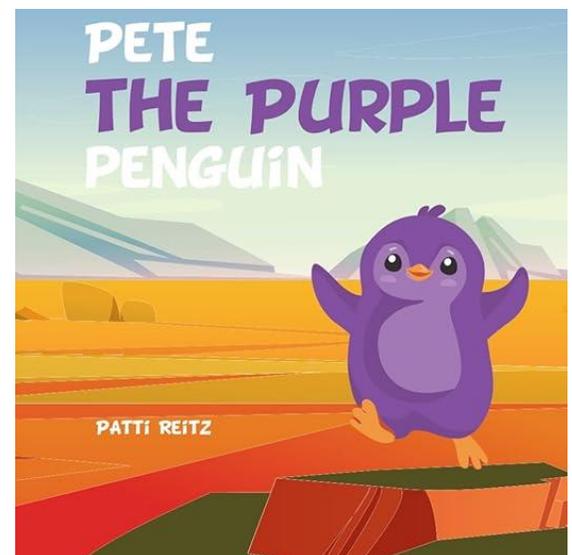

Amy Willman has worked as an American Sign Language Coordinator and Lecturer at the University of Nebraska–Lincoln since 2001. She earned her bachelor's degree in Elementary and Studio Arts with a minor in Theater from Gallaudet University. She earned her master's degree in Deaf Education from McDaniel College. She co-authored Amy Signs book with her mother. She also does the ASL signs and videos for all the books in the Duke the Deaf Dog Series.

Patti Reitz is a Deaf author who graduated from Gallaudet University in Washington, D.C., with a BS, and from California State University, Northridge, with a master's degree. She taught for over 54 years at the elementary, middle school, and high school levels. She also taught at the college level. This is her first book.
